Paralympian Sprinter

Raymond Martin (1992-) was born with an illness in his bones. He must use a wheelchair but that did not make him sad. Raymond really liked sports like archery, swimming, and wheelchair racing. He won four gold medals in the Paralympics in 2012 and one in 2016. Raymond also liked school and studied mathematics. He was named Paralympic SportsMan of the year twice because people admired Raymond's love for sports and learning.
